DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claim 14 is objected to because of the following informalities: in lines 11-12 of claim 1, it seems that "adhesive coating" should be --adhesive strip--. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1, 2, 6, 7, 14, 15, 19, and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Cartagenova (US 5,653,024).

Cartagenova discloses a nail clipping receptacle including: a hollow housing (Receptacle 52) having a bottom, a pair of opposed sides (56) connected to the bottom, a back connected to the opposed sides and the bottom, and a top (58) connected to the opposed sides (6) and the back. The opposed sides (56) have a length that substantially extends along the length of the nail clippers, as discussed in column 4, lines 9-11. The top has a length less than the length of the sides (56). The top has an opening (60) sufficient to allow actuation of the lever and the jaws of the nail clippers.

The housing is sized to slidably receive a portion (protrusion 50) of the nail clippers, as discussed in column 1, lines 60-66 and shown in Figure 4. An adhesive coating (62) is located on an interior surface including at least one of the sides. The adhesive coating (62) is adapted to retain the nail clippings which come into contact with it. The housing is disposable (column 4, lines 53-55). The adhesive coating (62) comprises an adhesive strip (column 4, lines 57-59) and it stays tacky for an extended period of time.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 3, 5, 16, and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cartagenova (US 5,653,024) in view of Marroco (US 5,423,124).

Cartagenova discloses the features discussed above, but does not disclose the material of the nail receptacle. Marrocco teaches making nail receptacles out of paper in column 5, line 66 to column 6, lines 8. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to make the receptacle of Cartagenova out of paper, as taught by Marrocco, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416 (CCPA 1960).

6. Claims 4 and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cartagenova (US 5,653,024) in view of Weidlich (US 6,009,880).

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments filed 20 March 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e., that the housing completely encases the nail clippers, covers the sides, and fits over the body of the nail clipper) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993). Claim 1 merely states that the housing is sized to slidable receive the nail clippers therein. Claim 1 does not state that the housing is actually capable of receiving the nail clippers or that the housing is capable of completely encasing the nail clippers.

Conclusion

8. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
